

Dr. Burgess Weekly Address August 30, 2019
The Dignity of Work

Hello, this is your Congressman Michael Burgess.

The United States is indebted to the generations of American workers who have built our nation. This weekend, we all should take time to reflect on the value of work. Labor Day is an opportunity to consider how American workers are contributing to the advancement of our economy while creating a strong foundation for themselves and their families.

In the past year, our country has experienced an economy that is working for the American people. Thanks to the pro-growth policies the House of Representatives passed in the last Congress, Texas has reached record-low unemployment. Plus, workers are seeing steady wage growth. I continue to hear from North Texans that this progress is making a real difference in their lives.

Congress must continue to support American workers with sensible and sustainable policy. Our goal must always be to build American jobs, for American workers, at American wages.

I am grateful to the many Americans in North Texas and around the country who help our nation not only survive, but thrive. This weekend, I wish you and your family a safe Labor Day.

As always, I appreciate your comments and your questions on this issue or any other issue. May God bless you and your family, God bless American workers, and as the song says, God bless you Texas.
